

Die Arche
a strong concept!

'Die Arche' is a Christian children's and youth project which was founded in 1995 by Pastor Bernd Siggelkow in Berlin.

Since that time Die Arche has been working for Germany's children:

- AGAINST the material and emotional impacts of child poverty,
- FOR more equal opportunities, regardless of social and cultural background.

Children belong at the heart of our society. The only way to achieve that is through a shared commitment.

For this reason Die Arche networks with partners from social services and schools and alongside economic and political actors.

Children in our country...

'The key to a child's heart is love and connection.'
Bernd Siggelkow

More than 4.5 million children in Germany are living in financial and in many cases also emotional poverty. Their opportunities for development and education are under threat. Many of them lack self-esteem and a belief in their own future.

Our motto is:

'Making children stronger for life'

Children at 'Die Arche' experience respect and trust – regardless of their social background. We provide a trustworthy contact for them and stay alongside them for the long term.

Our goals:

- o promote potential
- o facilitate education
- o provide opportunities

LEISURE TIME

Diverse opportunities for meaningful leisure activities.

FOOD

A free hot meal forms an important part of a reliable daily diet and also creates opportunities for valuable conversations.

What we offer children and families:

LEARNING

Help with homework and individual tutoring in a motivational learning atmosphere.

FRIENDS

Trustworthy relationships that will help children to develop stronger personalities.

HOLIDAYS

Unforgettable holiday experiences that expand our children's horizons and inspire them in everyday life.

FAMILY

Empowering parents to bring up their children and shape their family life.
